GOV. SIEGELMAN MAKES ANNOUNCEMENT

State provides vital levee funds

by Linda Hodge, Staff Writer

It was a day of good news and even better news last Thursday afternoon as Governor Don Siegelman visited the City of Elba.

The National Security Conference Center was decorated with broken levees and sand bags. Everyone anticipated the governor's announcement concerning the future of the levees in Elba and Geneva.

"We all remember the torrential rains of 1998," said Gov. Siegelman. "Then, I came to offer solace and help. Today, I come here to offer hope and help."

Siegelman announced to the crowd of over 300 people that, with the passing of current legislation, the State of Alabama will be able to provide over $10 million dollars in matching funds towards the rebuilding of the levees in Elba and Geneva. This will complete the funding for the levee projects by attaining the 35 percent matching funds to accommodate the already appropriated federal funds.

"This is the greatest victory we have had in many years," said Geneva Mayor Warren Beck. "Today, Governor Siegelman brings new life to Elba and Geneva."

As of his announcement on Thursday, Siegelman said the legislative bill had already passed in the House of Representatives and was currently in the hands of the Senate. He said he had no doubt the

"While we have no control over the weather, we must do everything we can to protect our citizens"

Gov. Siegelman

Senate will approve it as well.

"During the flood, I remember two communities pulling together. People showing no concern for themselves but for others," Siegelman said. "It's a special spirit that you people have here, and I think that is a direct effect of why we are here today."

Elba Mayor James Grimes thanked Gov. Siegelman for the news he brought to Elba, but he also thanked many other individuals and groups that have worked hour after hour in getting the two cities to this point.

"While we have no control over the weather, we must do everything we can to protect our citizens," said Siegelman.

On that note, the governor announced the proposal of a Pea River Reservoir which will be a new source of water and an added protection during times of flood and drought for the area.

"I am only making a proposal," said Siegelman. "But, if this is something that this community wants, I will fight for it."

Mayor Beck said Gov. Siegelman is fulfilling the dreams of bringing businesses and families back to these communities. He said with these improvements, people will be able to return to the community they love and not have to worry if it will flood again.

As one of our local business people said, "none of it will be worth a dime unless we restore the integrity of the levees and the confidence of the people who live and work in these areas," said Mayor Grimes. "Today, we are celebrating. I thank everyone for what they have done in regards to bringing hope back to our cities."

The contract for the Elba levee is set to be let by the Corp of Engineers in late September or early October.

GOVERNOR TAKES TIME OUT...Alabama Governor Don Siegelman takes a few minutes to sign his autograph for Little Miss Elba Brooke Weeks last Thursday at the National Security Conference Center in Elba. Siegelman was in Elba to make an announcement concerning the levee rehabilitation in Elba and Geneva. Afterwards, he socialized with local citizens and enjoyed a catered barbecue meal. Please see Page 14 for additional scenes from the Governor's visit.

"I am very happy to learn of Alabama's commitment to provide State matching funds for the levee project. The State's pledge to secure $10 million for the reconstruction of the Elba and Geneva levees represents the passage of the last hurdle in the process to make this vital project a reality. This successful funding effort actually began three years ago in Congress when I worked to authorize the federal money for the levee rehabilitation project. Last year, I also worked on the House side to secure the necessary $19.2 million federal appropriation for the levee reconstruction. I am extremely pleased to see the state and federal funding efforts finally come together, and I look forward to breaking ground in the near future."

Elba police officers & dispatchers voluntarily submit to drug testing

by Marvin McLwain, Editor

Contrary to what the public may think or believe, law enforcement personnel are subject to drug testing - they are not exempt. The members of the Elba Police Department found this to be true on Tuesday (April 24th) of last week.

Elba Police Chief R. W. "Ronnie" Whitworth scheduled staggered meetings of his personnel at what was to be a routine staff meeting. Upon their arrival at the meeting, after conducting minor items of business, officers were given a consent and release form dealing with medical information to fill out. This was done in accordance with the City of Elba's drug/alcohol policy.

After filling out the questionnaire which included the listing of any prescribed & non-prescribed drugs or medication taken in the last 14 days, officers were directed to report to the city's medical officer (a local physician).

The consent and release form was completed on a voluntary agreement basis with the following stipulations: one - If the results are positive, said results will be confirmed using proven test method. Confirmation results will be interpreted by qualified personnel; two - If the confirmed test result is positive, I may be subject to disciplinary action or termination. However, I will be granted a hearing before a Review Board of at least two management personnel if I request the hearing in writing within 5 days after I receive notice of the confirmed test results. At the hearing, I will have an opportunity to explain the reason for the test results; three - THIS TEST IS VOLUNTARY. I MAY REFUSE TO TAKE THIS TEST OR SIGN TESTS. However, refusal will subject me to disciplinary action including dismissal. I will be granted a hearing if I request the hearing in writing within 5 days after receiving notice of disciplinary action taken for my refusal to undergo a test.

The purpose of the test is to determine if employees are able to perform his or her duties of their job with the City of Elba and insure that they are not a threat to the safety of the public or other employees.

When asked why the tests were administered, Chief Whitworth responded, "There are always accusations that law enforcement personnel think they are above the law and they are not."

Police officers, who are expected to enforce the laws, are subject to those same laws, and we are responsible for policing ourselves as well as others. No man is above the law."

IT WAS A GOOD DAY...as the personnel of Elba Propane Gas cooked, registered guests, and made their customers feel welcome last Thursday. Things really smelled good downtown as gas company employees fired up the grills - propane gas grills that is! It was not only a day of customer appreciation but also a day of celebration for a company that has served residents and businesses of Southeast Alabama since 1947. Picture above are (l-r): Phil Savage, representative from Rutherford Equipment; Sonya Bryan, Elba Propane Gas (EPG); John Mitchell, EPG; Donna McCormick-Morris, EPG; Laymon Tindol, EPG; David Norrell, EPG; Jason Gamble, LP Dealer; and Gibby McCormick, EPG. The winners of the Phenix grill was Bobby Phillips of Opp; and Jim Dodd of Elba won the Char-broil grill. A Customer Appreciation Day is planned for the New Brockton office this Friday (May 4th).

Court dismisses Revenue Commissioner's petition for declaratory judgement in Byrd case

by Marvin McLwain, Editor

The Circuit Court of Coffee County has ruled in favor of the Coffee County Commission on its "motion to dismiss" a petition filed with the Court asking for a declaratory judgment in the firing of Ms. Angela Byrd.

In the court's summary, Circuit Judge Gary L. McAllely stated: "After a thorough review of applicable Alabama law, it is clear that the Coffee County Commission WAS ACTING WITHIN ITS DEFINED AUTHORITY UNDER ALABAMA LAW, specially Title 40, Chapter 6A, sections one through eight. The Code of Alabama 1975, as amended. Such a finding supports the position of the Coffee County Commission that the Revenue Commissioner's PETITION has failed to state a cause of action for which relief can be granted, and, therefore, the Commission's MOTION TO DISMISS is due to be granted."

Ms. Byrd was fired as the county's chief real property appraiser after testing positive for drugs following her arrest on March 1 on the charge of DUI (driving under the influence).

The county commission fired Ms. Byrd on its March 13, 2000, meeting. Following Ms. Byrd's dismissal by the commission, Revenue Commissioner Ronnie Burns, Ms. Byrd's immediate supervisor, filed with the court on April 13, 2000, a petition for declaratory judgment and a motion for injunctive relief in the matter.

It has been Mr. Burns' contention that the commission did not have the right to dismiss Ms. Byrd after a blood test came back positive following her arrest on March 1 for DUI. He further disagreed that the county had the authority to hire an appraiser to replace Ms. Byrd.

At that time, Circuit Judge Gary McAllely ruled that the petition for declaratory judgment would be heard, however, he denied the motion for injunctive relief clearing the way for the commission to hire an appraiser. No appraiser has been hired as of this date.

In making his recent ruling, Judge McAllely stated that the facts in this case were undisputed. Ms. Byrd was terminated by the Coffee County Commission for violating the rules governing employees of Coffee County, Alabama, specially, the drug policy of the county.

Testimony was heard by the Judge concerning the events that led to the administering of drug tests to Ms. Byrd by the county's designated medical review officer, and to her ultimate arrest for DUI.

In making his determination as to whether or not Ms. Byrd was an employee of the Coffee County Commission and subject to disciplinary action from that body or if she was an employee of and subject to being disciplined only by the Coffee County Revenue Commissioner, Judge McAllely referred to the Code of Alabama 1975, as amended, specially Title 40, section 6A.

The Judge also referred to a court case, Barbour County Commission v. Employees of Barbour County Sheriff's Department, which addressed this issue in 1982. It was ruled in that case and upheld by the Alabama Supreme Court, that the county commission did have the authority to discipline employees of the tax assessor and tax collector offices, since they were funded by the county commission and were considered to be employees of the county.

Judge McAllely, in referring to "evidence" certain local legislative acts and a "Property Appraisal Handbook" - a 1972 edition submitted by Burns for the consideration of the court, stated that all was superseded by the passage into law, Section 40-6A, the Code of Alabama 1975.

The final order of the court signed by Circuit Judge Gary L. McAllely read: "IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED ADJUDGED AND DECREED that the Coffee County revenue Commissioner Ronald L. Burns' cause of action in the above styled case against the Coffee County, Alabama Commission is DISMISSED for failure to state a ground upon which relief can be granted."

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that all additional relief requested but not provided for is hereby denied.

Attempts to contact Revenue Commission Burns for comment on the court's ruling failed due to his being out of town.

With Ferrin Cox

Today we have levees and flood control on our mind. If you are not at all interested in that, skip on to something else.

The visit of Governor Siegelman to Elba last Thursday was by all accounts a success. His words were sweet music to our ears. Those in the overflowing crowd attending the event were in a festive mood and repeatedly expressed thanks to the governor for his funding actions which finalized the money for levee repairs in Elba and Geneva. Contracts are set to be let by the Corps of Engineers on the Elba levee project this fall, with actual construction taking about two years. Geneva should see contracts let on their project next spring.

It was also great to hear the governor commit to an additional flood control action - an impoundment on Pea River. Siegelman said he is working with Senator Shelby on this and it is part of the ongoing negotiations with Georgia and Florida water use committees. This type lake has been turned down by various federal agencies several times starting in the mid-sixties. Even with the active support of a sitting governor, senior U.S. senator and all of South Alabama, any type lake on Pea River is a long, long way from becoming a reality. Experts estimate that if funding was available, site selected and mapped, etc., it would be at least ten years before all permits were secured and such a lake could actually be constructed. Before the sun set last Thursday, questions were being asked about how this project would impact plans in the works to construct an impoundment near Dothan to furnish water to that city. While we don't have an educated answer, our opinion is that it is an apples and oranges deal, one is to supply water to Dothan and the latest one is suggested as flood control.

Elba Mayor James Grimes and Geneva Mayor Warren Beck have coordinated well in their efforts with state and federal officials on these levee repair projects and are to be lauded. A lot of other people have played a part in getting us to this point and their help does not go unnoticed nor unappreciated. The opening words of Elba Mayor James Grimes, following the announcement by the governor were, "Mayor Warren Beck and I have a lot of people to thank on behalf of the citizens of our respective cities. Without this coordinated effort these projects would still only be dreams in the minds of suffering citizens." That is so true. A lifetime personal friend, now mayor of another South Alabama town, summed it up well when he commented during the bar-b-que eating time that this was clearly a case of people working together for a common cause and that the people of Elba and Geneva are to be admired and commended for their coordinated efforts.

We have personally witnessed almost all of the happenings which have led up to getting these levee repairs funded and the design work done. We were with Mayor Grimes in Washington in 1998 and again in Montgomery this year as the projects slowly took shape. Sandwiched in between were meetings in Clanton and in Troy plus dozens of meetings in Elba and an astonishing number of telephone calls...to everywhere. It has been, and continues to be, a gratifying experience. There were ups and downs, and a lot of uphill challenges, as with any such endeavor, but we don't know of a single person who has been involved that thinks the efforts were not worthwhile.

We end this long-winded chatter by reminding any who don't know that our Congressional delegation in Washington has taken a lot of pressure from their peers in the arm-twisting to get the necessary federal funds approved for repairing these levees in Elba and Geneva. It would be nice if each and every person reading this column were to personally thank U.S. Representative Terry Everett and U.S. Senators Richard Shelby and Jeff Sessions.

21st Century Bill Brings Economic Improvements to Elba and Geneva

MONTGOMERY - Residents in both Elba and Geneva have seen a financial respite to the flooding problems caused by environmental damage to the water levees with the passage of HB 768 Tuesday Co-sponsored by Representative Terry Spicer. D. Elba, HB 768 establishes the Alabama Enabling Act. This act allocates money from the 21st Century Fund to be used for various economic and environmental development projects.

Elba Police Report

The Elba Police Department, beginning Monday, April 23, 2001, investigated the following incidents: one DUI one property damage, two burglaries, one theft of property, and one lost property.

The following arrests were made: one for possession of a forged instrument, four for failure to appear, and one for failure to obtain a credit card.

Traffic citations issued during the week were as follows: twelve for speeding, five for no insurance, two for driving while a driver's license are revoked, five for failure to obey seat belt law, one for driving while a driver's license are suspended, one for running a stop sign, one for no proof of insurance, four for failure to obey child restraint law, and one for an expired tag.

Rep. Terry Spicer

throughout the state. The 21st Century Fund is issued statewide each year through the selling and issuing of bonds. These bonds are primarily used to cover the expenses of industrial recruitment throughout the state, such as Toyota in Huntsville and Mercedes in Birmingham. The funds also pay for any training facilities needed to operate these corporations, such as vocational, technical, or any other specialized training for employees. However, some of the bonds will be appropriated to fund the economic improvement of the levees in both Elba and Geneva.

According to the Enabling Act, the city of Elba will receive $16 million and the county of Geneva will receive $5 million in funding. Residents of both can recall the flooding that occurred in Elba in 1990 and again in Geneva in 1998. The community was not equipped to handle the flood of 1990, which was caused by the water levee breaking for the first time since its construction in the 1920s.

"No one was prepared for the flood back in 1990, which is why the city didn't have anything to cover the cost of the damages at the time," explains Representative Spicer. "In 1998, when the levee broke the city had insurance, but lacked the equipment to deal with such unexpected stress."

As of January 1, 1999, the estimated insurance claims from flood damages exceed $15 million in Elba, not counting uninsured claims from 1990. Geneva County damages are estimated to be higher than $1 million, without taking the uninsured claims from 1990 into consideration. In addition, heavy tangible losses, two lives were lost during the 1998 flood.

"As a community, you can't a price on rebuilding structure and replacing possessions. If there is no way we can begin to replace the loss of a human life, in addition to financial loss, many people lost their lives which added to the devastation of the flooding," indicates Representative Spicer.

By using this money to improve and repair the water levees, we are ensuring that if type of emergency does affect our community again, we will be able to handle it. In addition, funds will be added to the appropriation to federal matching dollars. Senator Phil Ponder is sponsoring Senate version of the bill.

THURSDAY, APRIL 26 - River stage - 4.30 feet (6:30 a.m.); Alarm at the Jewel Box (6:45 a.m.); Disturbance reported on William Street (8:10 p.m.); Alarm at a residence on Oakwood Street (9:30 p.m.); Alarm at the Housing Authority's office in Morris Village (9:40 p.m.); Disturbance reported at Hardee's (11:16 p.m.).

FRIDAY, APRIL 27 - River stage - 4.22 feet (6:30 a.m.); Alarm at a residence on West Davis Street (11:13 p.m.); Fight reported in Kennedy Estates (4:43 p.m.).

SATURDAY, APRIL 28 - River stage - 4.15 feet (6:45 a.m.); Routine activity.

SUNDAY, APRIL 29 - River stage - 4.05 feet (6:52 a.m.); Routine activity.

Impressions of Italy explored by EHS students

by Cammie Kelley
"El Tu Brute." These famous words sparked a vengeful conspiracy filled with jealousy, loyalty, and murder. On April 20, students from Elba High attended Julius Caesar on Class Day at the Alabama Shakespeare Festival in Montgomery. AP and Advanced English students from the 10th and 12th grades viewed the bloodthirsty conspiracy that Shakespeare portrays so well.

The Shakespearean play lasted two hours and was preceded by a question-and-answer session with two of the actors. Students also learned about the main themes of the play—ambition, honor, jealousy, dedication, patriotism and power.

After leaving the Alabama Shakespeare Festival, the EHS students were able to sample a taste of Rome. They dined at the Olive Garden, eating happily and savoring every bite of the Italian celebration. The field trip was a cultural exploration and a lesson learned in the history of Shakespeare.

Crash course in bridge-making

by Bethany Dye
On Wednesday and Thursday, April 18 and 19, Mr. Carlin's Algebra I and Calculus classes "crashed bridges." Each student was required to build a bridge between 15 and 18 inches long completely out of glue and popsicle sticks. The bridges also could not be more than 12 inches tall.

Each student's bridge was placed between two garbage cans that were 13 inches apart. A bucket was then hung from the bridge and weights were put in the bucket one by one until the bridge gave way. The weight in the bucket was then measured and recorded.

The bridges were graded on craftsmanship, design and weight capacity. Some bridges held over two hundred pounds. The project was a lesson in engineering, patience, and most of all, trial and error.

Name: Renee Mitchell
Parents: Joe and Jany Mitchell
Age: 16 years-old
Grade: 10th
Favorite Color: Purple
Favorite Music: Rap
Interests/Hobbies: Cooking
Personal Quote: "One night stand."

Renee views math as fun and challenging because, in her opinion, the knowledge she gains from it is very valuable. The single thing that she likes above all else about attending Elba High School is going to PE.

Renee wishes she had the chance to attend a course in art, unfortunately, there is not one offered at EHS.

After she receives her diploma, she is planning on getting a job.

Renee Mitchell

Her most memorable moment at Elba High was the time that she got into a mud fight.

Lynn Weeks, guidance counselor, will meet with all interested parents and students who will be in grades 10 thru 12 NEXT school year to discuss college and scholarship information. It is important to begin working on resumes and toward scholarships as early as 9th grade. All parents of students grades 10-12 are strongly encouraged to attend. This meeting will be in the high school auditorium at 6:30 p.m. Monday, May 21, 2001.

Hardships or Scholarships?

by Alan Head
With graduation only a couple of weeks away and the school year coming to an end for everyone at EHS, it is the time again for the citizens of Elba to discover which senior is going to what college and who has the honor of receiving a scholarship.

But for every honor, there is a flipside to the five minutes of fame that comes with that honor. This side is the hard work that each person puts into each detail of a resume or the pain of rejection after the first school of choice does not give the necessary money to make one able to fulfill his dreams. With this in mind, the question arises, "Is this honor a hardship or a scholarship?"

After making this inquiry to several of the senior students at EHS, the average response seemed to be, "It's hard sometimes to have to sell yourself to somebody you don't know, write endless essays, and tell recourses of personal experiences and accomplishments that might not be true."

Elba Junior Beta holds initiation

by Amy Kirkland
The Elba Junior Beta Club held its Spring Induction Service on April 18. All new members repeated the pledge and received their membership certificate, card and pin. The word "Spring" was used to describe the characteristics of a Beta Club member.

Sensitivity, Patience, Integrity, Nice, Genuine. These initiated were: Justin Watkins, Whitney Lawford, Amanda Mauldin, Ashley Walden, Stacey Mitchell, Reynard Rogers, Amanda Pope, Dustin Rhodes, Todd Kelley, Shantana Wright, Elizabeth Weeks, Casey Medlock, Kayla Kelley, Rae Walker, Ashleigh Waddell, Laray Williams, Hunter McGuire, Ashley Carley, Timothy Jackson, Hena McCollough, Duke Carr, Alicia Burks, Judson Vaughan, Adrian Bowers, Brittany Hudson, Kendall Stinson and Stephanie Baxley.

All of these students met the qualifications of making the A/B honor roll and fulfilling community service hours.

It seems petty to them. Even then, most colleges judge you on just one test, either the ACT or the SAT and the standards are set so high that it is almost impossible to score what you need on them to come away with a decent scholarship. On top of all this, there is that long wait that comes after each interview or letter that tells whether or not you get the scholarship.

At times it seems like you should just give up, but then it happens. You receive a scholarship, are overjoyed at your accomplishment, and it all seems worthwhile.

In conclusion, never give up on the scholarship process. You might just be one of the lucky ones who overcomes the hardship and receives the scholarship.

TSU Jazz Ensembles perform

by Amanda Beerenstrauch
The sounds of jazz filled the halls of Elba High School on Tuesday, April 10. The One O'clock and Late Afternoon Jazz Ensembles from Troy State University, under the direction of Mr. Ray Smith, presented a free concert open to the public.

The Troy State Ensembles did an outstanding job. Their program was very entertaining and had a great variety. I hope that in the near future students who were members of the Elba band will participate in the Troy State University Jazz Program," said band director Jeff Ellis.

The concert was a wonderful opportunity to enjoy a terrific performance by two very talented groups of musicians.

National Library Week observed

Recently, Mrs. Margaret Calhoun and Mrs. Paula McCollough, Elba High School librarians, showed their appreciation to all the teachers, support staff, administration, and other special guests of the school system by treating them to a snack during morning/break. The tea party was held during National Library Week. Above, many of the guests enjoy their snack during the time of fellowship.

NEWS From ESJC

Enterprise State Junior College secretaries will hold a Quilt Show fundraiser for Relay for Life on May 3 and 4, in Talmadge Hall's Connor Gallery. Admission is $2.00, and the show is open from 11:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. on May 3, and from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. on May 4.

This summer semester at Enterprise State Junior College, students may take courses during the two mini-terms, attending classes just four days a week, and complete six or more hours of work. Students are encouraged to complete 12 hours (two courses per mini-term) to 15 hours of work for what is considered a full work load.

Many students use the mini-term options to complete a series of courses. This summer, such a series is offered with College Chemistry I & II, Organic Chemistry I & II, Physical Science I & II, Principles of Economics I & II, English Literature I & II, Western Civilization I & II, United States History I & II, Beginning and Intermediate Weight Training, and Beginning and Intermediate General Conditioning.

For more information about how to be admitted to the College, how to register for classes, or about the mini-term sessions, call 334-393-ESJC, ext. 234.

A $1,000 scholarship will be given to a 2001 high school graduating senior or an Enterprise State Junior College freshman by the Republican Women of Coffee County. Interested applicants may obtain application guidelines from their high school principals or guidance counselors in Coffee

REBEL '01 on sale

Subscriptions for the Zion Chapel 2001 yearbook, the REBEL '01 will go on sale on May 1, 2001. The delivery date will be sometime after school starts next year. The REBEL is usually delivered in September.

Because of the rising cost of production, the subscription has gone up to $30. There are two ways to pay for a subscription to the REBEL '01.

1) A subscriber can pay a $15 deposit this spring and then pay the remaining $15 when the book is delivered in the fall.

2) A subscriber can pay the full purchase price of $30 this spring.

No subscriptions will be taken after June 1, 2001. When the books are delivered in the fall and after those with subscriptions have been counted and set aside for delivery, the remaining will be sold on a first-come, first-served basis.

ZC's Beta Club attends Alabama State Convention

Members of the senior level Beta Club attended the Alabama State Beta Club Convention in early March. The members attending were all officers of the club. Those attending were Heather Danley, Sarah Maddox, Kimberly Jordan, Amie Perry, Anastasia Harbuck, Heather Golden, Randall Branson, Matthew Richards, Ashley Wambles and Amanda Perry.

Several of the members attending the convention competed in various events including English literature, math, science, and Spanish competitions. There was also a quiz bowl. Other events included creative writing, arts and crafts, scrapbook and talent.

The group spent their trip to Birmingham at the Tutwiler Hotel, one of the oldest hotels in Birmingham. The Tutwiler is in downtown Birmingham so the group got to see some interesting historical buildings.

To pay for their trip to the convention and to pay for the stoles that senior members will wear at graduation, members of

Jr. Beta's cookbook sale declared a success

Earlier in the year, the members of the Junior Beta Club sold subscriptions for a cookbook that would contain recipes of people connected to the Zion Chapel Community. The purpose of the cookbook sale was to raise money for the annual field trip. The cookbook was named by Jeff Hobart, and it was dedicated to Kacy Clark, the first president of the Junior Beta Club.

The cookbook, named "Cooking With Jack," was a high seller. Two hundred were presold at $12 each. When Mrs. Dedra Henson, Junior Beta Sponsor, was asked if the final publication lived up to her expectations, she said, "Yes, the books are very colorful and represent the community well. Talent Show held Lauren Moore, a junior who sang with an accompaniment tape, won first place in a talent show, sponsored by the Zion Chapel band program.

Second place went to Lydia Mills, a second grader who sang acapella and third place went to the drama group from the Elba Assembly of God. This group included Zion Chapel students Kimberly McClain, Billy McClain, Ken Hobbs and Chris Summerlin. The group also included some Elba High School students.

There were over 40 contestants ranging from kindergarten to twelfth grade and covered a variety of talent such as vocal, instrumental, dance, lip-synching and drama. Mr. Charles Walker and Mr. Scotty Brown were the judges.

Mrs. Shirley Goodson raised the prize money from among the elementary school faculty. Mrs. Pam Flowers was in charge of taking up the money for admittance at the door. Seventh grade band students were in charge of running the program. Mr. Michael Bird, band director, said, "Everyone did a fantastic job. All in all, the talent show turned out to be a real success for everyone."

ZCMS celebrates Aerospace Week

Completing a unit on space was the way students in the Zion Chapel Middle School celebrated Aerospace Month. The celebration was from March 6 until March 16.

Sixth grade students worked on Planet Packets which included stories, puzzles and word searches about space. The students watched the movie "Apollo 13" and competed in a Space Poster Contest. First place went to Erica Lewis, second place was Matt Williams, and third place went to Kelly Quattlebaum. Two honorable mentions were given—one to Jenna Mobley and one to Audrianna Mills. To end the week of celebration, the poster winners and other students released helium balloons with a message that included the Zion Chapel Middle School name, address and e-mail address. The message asked anyone finding the message to write to the students at the Middle School.

Mrs. Dedra Henson, instructor, said, "The two-week program was fun, interesting, and overall very informative."

The club sold chances on several items including $10 in gas at the ZC Express, an oil change, woodworking projects, a Beanie Baby, and a basket filled with Mary Kay cosmetics. The chances for these items have been sold but the drawing for winners has not been held. Winners will be announced in a later edition of the REBEL NEWS.

ZC's FBLA named Outstanding Chapter in state

Thirty-two members of the Zion Chapel Chapter of Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA) attended the Alabama State FBLA Conference in early April. They were accompanied by their sponsor, Mrs. Rachel Bryan, and three other adult chaperones. Mrs. Rebecca Jackson, Ms. Donna Arnold and Mrs. Mary Mullin.

Members of the chapter were housed at the Birmingham Sheraton Civic Center Hotel where the meetings and competitions for the conference were held.

Competitions began on the first day of the conference at 3:30 in the afternoon. Seventeen members of the delegation competed in ten different competitions. The members of the Entrepreneurship team and the Parliamentary Procedure team made it to the final competition. There were four other teams in Entrepreneurship and five other teams in Parliamentary Procedure.

A district meeting was held for each of the six districts into which the state is divided. Zion Chapel was named Outstanding Chapter for District IV. Mallorie Bedsole was named to Who's Who for District IV.

When the winners of the various competitions were named on the last day of the conference, the Parliamentary Procedure team claimed third place. Members of the Parliamentary Procedure Team are Amie Perry, Heather Arnold, Heather Danley, Allan Harrison and Whitney Stephens. The Zion Chapel Chapter was named Outstanding Chapter in the State of Alabama.

ZC's drum major & colorguard selected

Tracy Banks has been selected to lead the band during the school year 2001-2002. She is the new drum major. Assistant drum major is Kassey Rhodes. Melissa Taylor, Kassey Rhodes, Tasha Bundy, Kim Rayburn, Nicky Paez, Britney Thompson, Kristen McClelland and Courtney Tracy have been named members of the "Visual Ensemble" of the Zion Chapel Marching Band.

Visual Ensemble is another way to say colorguard and majorette. They are band auxiliaries that add visually to the appearance of the band.

The tryouts were held on a recent Saturday and the judges were Larry Wells, band director at Slocomb High School; Jennie Bruce, a music student at Troy State University; and Stacey Cape, a graduate of Zion Chapel High School and a music student at Troy State University.

TSU Jazz Band performs at Zion Chapel

Students at Zion Chapel were treated to an afternoon of jazz music recently.

The jazz program has always been an important part of music at Troy State University. One of the earliest groups of jazz musicians at Troy State was the "Wavemen," organized after World War II. The Wavemen played music of the then-popular Big Band era. Dr. Johnny Long arrived on the scene in 1965 and took jazz in many new directions.

Dr. Long brought with him a wealth of experience as a professional musician and as an educator with years of jazz education knowledge. His love of jazz and his talent insured that jazz would be an important element of his programs—so much so, that his new named "South of the South" band would feature jazz more than any other band ever. It became a motto for Dr. Long that "at Troy State, even the piccolo players know how to swing."

Jazz continues to be a source of inspiration for the current directors at TSU—Mr. Robert W. Smith, internationally known composer, and Mr. Ralph Ford, a well-known arranger and composer in his own right. Mr. Ray Smith has been leading the jazz bands at Troy for four years, after fifteen years of leadership from Mr. Ralph Ford. Mr. Ray Smith has formed many new ensembles that feature jazz.

Two of the TSU groups were heard at Zion Chapel recently. The "Late Afternoon Jazz Ensemble" led by Mr. Shane

District Attorney assists KPD purchase protective vests

District Attorney Mark E. Fuller was recently able to assist the Kinston Police Department in the purchase of two protective body armor vests.

Recent studies have shown that the protective vests have prevented the deaths of line law enforcement officers, and it is estimated that nearly 100 percent of the officers in Coffee and Pike counties are equipped with the protective vests.

Kinston Police Chief Russ Young commented that he was most appreciative of the district attorney providing the vests for his department. He further stated that many items in the smaller departments go lacking because of a shortage of funding.

One of the first programs was to set aside forfeiture monies and similar revenues and specially earmark those for critical equipment needed by local law enforcement agencies in Coffee and Pike counties. Since the inception of the program, numerous items have been provided such as video cameras, underwater cameras, used vehicles, administrative equipment and assistance in purchasing uniforms.
